

The Vassal State White Paper

As expected there was a total capitulation by the Tory "Brexiters" (in name only) at Chequers. The Tories have form like this. Remember Maastricht? When it comes down to it, they'll put party loyalty above their country. No bodies in the library to report, no resignations, no sackings, nothing. As a result, they have lost all credibility with their supporters and it is being reported on social media of Conservative Party members tearing up and burning their membership cards. Ironically some of them are saying they would vote Labour who would be do exactly the same betrayal.

The White Paper being proposed by Remainer May is a total sellout of all her "Redlines", but ironically even this vassal state proposal, would not have gone far enough and be dismissed as "Cherry picking" by Barnier and Verhofstadt. Thus as the Article 50 deadline draws to an close, it is lining the UK up for the PERMANENT transition TREATY after March 2019, which in all reality is the European Communities Act 2.0 however this time as vassal colony of the EU, forever in limbo, ripe to be taken back in as a new EU full member, warts, Euro, EU Army, EU Justice, EU Schengen and all.

The Tories are doing what John Major PM did in the 1990's and making themselves totally unelectable, indecision, divided, no Brexit plan, "wait and see" they are clearly at a loss. So far "Brexit means Brexit" has them in total confusion for a largely Remainer cabinet to handle and in my opinion are paving the road to pass the "hot potato" onto Labour for them to renege on the "will of the people", in a snap election.

This might be their undoing as it could leave an opportunity for patriotic parties such as UKIP to fill the void and replace them as an elected political force in Westminster. Either way it looks like the Tories will be in the wilderness forever and a day after this betrayal as patriotic parties start to make a comeback all over Europe. Britain's patriot revolution is about to begin with renewed vigour.
