

The Muslim outfits and Boris Johnson

” First of all, this was a bit of very clever positioning by Boris Johnson - putting him on the side of what many - perhaps most - people think by stating an opinion which is manifestly true yet outside the scope of the stringent laws about "hate speech" whilst nonetheless unwelcome to the politically correct.

The hysterical response from our political class is only doing him good. It shows the extent to which our rulers are already subservient to the Muslim community - a community whose religion commands every true Muslim to conquer us by all and any means and make us submit to their code of law. Islam means submission and requires it of every last non-Muslim.

When that is done, Islam does indeed become a religion of peace -but not before.

Our leaders have, in fact, surrendered in advance and are clearly terrified of causing the least offence to those whose religious vocation is our submission to their law - a law which is profoundly inimical to and incompatible with our own.”
